

BECOME A BENEFACTOR

AN INVITATION FROM THE CHAIRMAN

I have been privileged to be involved with MCC for over 40 years – as a Playing Member, as President, and now as Chairman of the Club's charitable arm, the MCC Foundation.

It has been a hugely enjoyable journey representing the Club on and off the pitch, but this latest stage – with the Foundation – promises to be the most rewarding and important of all, because of the great impact we can make to use cricket as a force for real, long-lasting good to enhance people's lives.

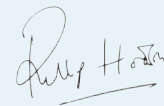

I have sponsored one of the Foundation's Hubs in Wakefield since 2012 because I want young cricketers to have good opportunities to play the game, irrespective of their background. Cricket has enriched my life and I want it to do the same for others.

However, the Foundation has lofty aspirations – I want this to be the most important and impactful charity in the game. This means we must broaden our scope and look at the good cricket can do for the people who need help most, whether that's in deprived parts of London close to Lord's, or overseas in countries without good infrastructure.

We want to develop the Foundation into a charity that runs local, national and global programmes, which both develops talent but also uses cricket as a vehicle for socio-economic change. And to do that, we need committed, long-term support from people like you.

We have developed a Benefactors' Programme, members of which contribute towards funding the Foundation's activities and, in return, receive a range of benefits and recognition. I hope that you will join me in becoming a Benefactor – together we can make a real change.

Phillip Hodson

Chairman, MCC Foundation

OUR MISSION

The MCC Foundation was founded in 1993, thanks to a legacy left by Sir Gubby Allen – the former England cricketer and long-serving MCC administrator.

Today, our interests are varied but also united under a simple mission:

TO ENHANCE LIVES THROUGH CRICKET

The MCC Foundation Hubs

Since 2011, the Foundation's flagship programme has been the development of a network of 50 Hubs across the UK.

Only 1% of state-educated 11-18 year olds regularly play cricket. The Hubs are working to combat the demise of cricket within the state sector through the delivery of free winter coaching and summer match-play to state-educated boys and girls aged 11-15.

The Hubs aim to enable every cricketer who passes through them to realise their full potential. In some cases, this means giving talented players on the cusp of representative cricket the extra support they need to break into a borough, district or county side. In other areas, where cricket provision is particularly sparse, the Hubs are keeping grassroots cricket alive by retaining youngsters in the game and improving the standard of local leagues.

"Our Year 9 son was struggling at school and was losing interest in some sports. After his session of coaching last week this changed as he was so engaged and excited to play... it was the turning point of him getting back on the right path."

We really do think that it's the positive coaching he's received that has made so much difference. I dropped a child off feeling low and negative and picked up an extremely positive and happy child."

Jules Jenkinson

Parent of two young cricketers at the Colchester Hub

In 2019, the MCC Foundation Hubs provided free cricket coaching over 10 weeks to:

- 1,898 state-educated 11-15 year olds
- 84% of whom were boys, 16% of whom were girls
- 96% felt they had become better cricketers thanks to attending a Hub
- 87% said going to the Hub had increased their desire to play cricket
- 73% of parents said their child's overall confidence had increased as a result of attending a Hub

"There is so much passion for cricket in Nepal, and with the growth of the national team over the past few years, now is the time to connect that passion and put a structure and development path in place for the next generation of young Nepalese players."

I am delighted that MCC has chosen Nepal as the first destination for its Legacy Tours and I hope that this will help create a sustainable approach to cricket in the country."

Paras Khadka, Nepal National Team Captain

MCC has a strong track record of making a positive difference abroad, in particular through its support of Afghan Connection and the Foundation for Goodness in post-tsunami Sri Lanka.

In July 2018, the Club announced it would undertake a series of "Legacy Tours" to Nepal – sending teams for three consecutive years to help develop cricket in a country that now has ODI and International T20 status.

In order to maximise the impact of MCC's work, MCCF will raise funds and co-ordinate programmes that look to develop the game at the grassroots. We will improve access to the game through delivery in schools and improving facilities, and also upskill local people to coach - ensuring the benefits are felt long after we leave.

Together we aim to establish a sustainable legacy for cricket on and off the field in Nepal.

The Foundation in London

The Foundation aspires to be an outstanding local charity, providing opportunities to the people of Westminster – a borough of London which houses both great wealth and extreme deprivation. Westminster may be home to some of London's most famous landmarks – including Lord's itself – yet just down the road from St John's Wood is Church Street, one of the 10% most deprived wards in the UK, with a third of children needing free school meals.

MCC's Community Development Team is active throughout Westminster: delivering cricket in all its state primary schools, running programmes to reduce social isolation amongst the elderly, and helping the long-term unemployed back into work.

This year we will be working closely with MCC Community to fund the expansion of their current programmes and to explore new ways of using Lord's to upskill, employ, and inspire more local people to become active and economically self-sufficient.

“Lord's Cricket Ground is such a special place and when I heard about the cricket and bowls sessions being run for people in the local community, I thought they would provide the perfect challenge for my husband, both physically and mentally. When I accompanied him I realised that I could enjoy the challenge of bowling and batting in the practice nets as well!”

These activities have given us so much pleasure and helped us to make new local friends.”

Enhancing Lives Through Cricket Together

The work of the Foundation is made possible by the generosity of each and every one of our supporters. The more supporters who join us, the greater the impact we can achieve together.

““Enhancing Lives Through Cricket!” A lofty and inspiring aim. I have been fortunate enough to have had involvement at different levels in this wonderful game throughout my life, experiencing the joy and also seeing the benefits it can offer. I have witnessed with dismay the selling off of school sports pitches, so I fully support whatever can be done to provide access to the game for young people. The hub concept meets this need head on and is hugely worth supporting.

Cricket is an unrivalled forum for communication and shared values. Spectators from completely different origins and backgrounds sit together and enjoy the contest and the special bond of jointly appreciating the unique rules and conventions. In a world where communication is everything, I believe that MCCF's work internationally to bring more countries into the test arena is a valuable service to mankind.”

Richard Kenning
MCC Foundation Benefactor and Hub Sponsor

“The only reason I was as old as three months when I first went to cricket was because I was born in the winter. My father was cricket mad and played at school, during the war, in his prisoner of war camp, and then for various clubs including the Cross Arrows and he played sometimes for MCC.

He instilled his love of cricket in both my mother and me, and I wanted to honour my parents and their love of this wonderful sport by supporting the MCC Foundation. My parents would have been delighted that their passion for cricket could hopefully be instilled in others from the very young upwards. It is therefore with enormous pleasure that I am supporting the Foundation in their name.”
